

STEVE VUJEVICH

Founding Partner | Private Wealth Advisor

Working closely with professional athletes, entrepreneurs, corporate executives and other individuals with complex financial situations, Steve helps clients discern the challenges and capitalize on the opportunities that can accompany significant wealth. He brings the knowledge and insight gained from advising an accomplished clientele, helping them make informed decisions about all aspects of their wealth. Steve recognizes that each client has unique priorities, concerns, and aspirations.

Prior to founding Advocus, Steve was First Vice President and Financial Advisor for over twenty years in the Private Wealth division of Merrill Lynch on one of the largest teams in the country.

Steve earned his Bachelor's degree from Ohio State University in Columbus where he was a member of the varsity football team. He and his family have a special affinity for a Columbus-based charity that supports technology enhancements for pediatric patients undergoing radiation treatment at The James at Ohio State University Hospital. Steve also supports the Wounded Warrior Project and Big Brothers and Big Sisters of Central Ohio. In the Pittsburgh area, his family established the Angels fund which, in partnership with Children's Hospital of Pittsburgh, The Highmark Caring Place, and St. Jude's Children's Hospital, provides financial assistance to children and families with exceptional medical needs.
